

Online Supply Chain Management

Online Bachelor of Business Administration in Supply Chain Management

Supply chain management is a rapidly growing and evolving area of employment being shaped by technology and international competition. If resources – people, money, machinery, facilities, material and information – are to be used wisely, supply chain management personnel must be familiar with computer technology, quantitative methods, and planning and problem-solving techniques useful in analyzing business systems. Excellent communication skills are also critical, as they interact with people at all levels of an organization.

Professionals with a degree in supply chain management can work in almost every industry imaginable. Career opportunities include operations and supply chain analyst, global supply chain management, distribution and warehouse planning, transportation management, quality control, and purchasing.

There are four emphases in the Supply Chain Management Major:

- Global Sourcing
- Logistics Analysis
- Project Management
- Supply Chain

University of Wisconsin
Whitewater

College of Business and Economics

[www.edu/online/bachelors/
supply-chain-management](http://www.edu/online/bachelors/supply-chain-management)

100%

placement rate

30,000

active alumni

$61,798

average starting salary

University of Wisconsin Whitewater

College of Business and Economics

What would you do with this degree?

The field of Supply Chain Management is incredibly broad and diverse. Most employers require a bachelor's degree for entry-level or managerial-level positions. You can explore entry-level career prospects at the Bureau of Labor and Statistics, including Logisticians, Production, Planning, and Expediting Clerks, Purchasing Managers and Purchasing Agents, First-Line Supervisors of Production, as well as Operations Research Analysts. Managerial level prospects include Transportation, Storage, and Distribution Managers, Industrial Production Managers, and Purchasing Managers.

Common Employers

Amazon, DSC Logistics,
HUSCO International, Harley
Davidson, SC Johnson

Common Job Titles

Buyer, Inventory Specialist,
Production Planner,
Purchasing Analyst,
Supply Chain Analyst

Wisconsin's Largest Business School

