

Institutional Research and Planning

The Office of Institutional Research and Planning at University of Wisconsin-Whitewater is responsible for the development and maintenance of data resources to support strategic planning and policy-making processes, fulfilling compliance reporting requirements, facilitating the dissemination of data in a timely and accurate manner, and promoting institutional effectiveness through the development and use of self-assessment and benchmarking tools.

www.uww.edu/irp

