Global News Database Trials

Libraries in the UW System are trialing three news databases this fall. Your input will help the UW System determine which news database will best support our campus. This product will replace the news content that was lost when the UW System canceled NexisUni and picked up Westlaw.

Access World News Research Collection (Newsbank) - trial ends Nov. 11, 2021

Database with global, national, and regional news, featuring newspapers, newswires, magazines, and videos in English and many other languages.

Factiva World News (Dow Jones/ProQuest) - trial ends Nov. 19, 2021

Database of global news, data, and company information.

Global Newsstream (ProQuest) – active 1 year subscription

Database with global and national news, featuring newspapers and newswires in English and other languages.

News Trials Feedback Form

Feedback due by Wed. Nov. 24, 2021

Kanopy Films Funding

This year, funding for Kanopy and other streaming films will be handled differently.

When an Academic Department requests a streaming film, half of the funds will come from the Department's Library allocation and half from central Library funds.

Kanopy licenses are typically $150 per year so $75 would come from the Department allocation.

All Things Streaming

If you assign Kanopy videos, now is a good time to check Research@UWW for any Kanopy titles you will use for Winterim or Spring terms.

Typical licenses are one year and expiration dates are listed in the View Online section of the Research@UWW records.

And don't forget all our other Streaming Film resources including Films on Demand and PBS Video Collection, which do not have per-title costs.

Spring Library Instruction

Will your students be working on papers or projects that require library research this spring? If so, your Librarian Liaison can create customized library instruction and/or a research guide for your students.

You and your librarian can work together to tailor the session and learning outcomes to the project at hand.
